

Current Status of NEC Networks & System Integration Group's Operations following the Tohoku Earthquake and Tsunami

 For immediate use March 22, 2011

Tokyo, March 22, 2011 - NEC Networks & System Integration Corporation (TSE: 1973) announced today the current status and the impact of the recent earthquake and tsunami in Northeastern Japan has had on operations of NEC Networks & System Integration Group (“the Group”).

1. Status of Employees and Business Locations

We have confirmed the all employees of the Group are safe.

Although the earthquake caused minor damage to some business facilities in affected area, the Group suffered no significant damage that will impact on its operations. There will be some effects due to unstable infrastructure and logistics,

NEC Networks & System Integration Group's commitment to its customers remains as strong as ever and Group is devoting its full attention to supporting the earliest recovery of the affected area.

2. Status of Support Services

All the data centers and network operation centers are located neither in the affected areas nor in the areas where Tokyo Electric Power Co. is implementing rolling power outage and they are in normal operations. NEC Networks & System Integration Group has sufficient back-up plan in place to maintain its operations even in case of unexpected power outage..

NEC Networks & System Integration Group and its employees would like to extend its sincere sympathy and condolences to all who were personally affected by the recent earthquake and tsunami in Northeastern Japan and to provide its support for a rapid recovery in the affected areas.
